

6/1/18- Lunch Meeting Notes with Kim Moiha

By: J. Delos Santos

Kim Moiha called and said she was in town servicing her car and asked if we could meet to talk about the recent Kipahulu meeting held in Hana. Clarence Tolentino was with Kim and Eric Smith and I decided to meet at Ruby Tuesday's restaurant for lunch. It was great to see cousin Clarence as I had not seen him in years.

Kim said the meeting was held at 3pm at Hana landing. James Kanekoa, Cheryl Tolentino, Fred & Roxanne Sinenci, and other Tolentino ohana were the attendees. The Tolentino Ohana was meeting to discuss family projects as well as the status of the Kipahulu land.

Kim said they were not expecting her. She told the group she was there to represent her dad's interest in the Kipahulu property discussion and that she found out about the meeting on Face Book.

Kim said she asked questions on historical tax payments and other questions regarding use and ownership. Kim said the group could not or had difficulty in responding to her questions.

In general, she felt her unexpected attendance and questions took everyone by surprise and may have disrupted their intended meeting agenda.

Our discussion moved on to the handling of the Waikaloa property. Kim wants us to work with her on the delinquent taxes there and discuss plans for long term use. She suggested on a couple of sleep overs so we have the time to work on the project. We plan on seeking kupuna and ohana input and approval once all the details have been worked out.

Kim is also asking for assistance in filing out an application for Hawaiian Homes.
